SYSTEM FOR GENERATING MEASURE OF AUTHENTICITY OF OBJECT

(57) An invention relates to generating object authenticity measure. The object includes a surface comprising- or covered with non-uniform preexisting layer. Marking is printed on the surface so that a property of preexisting layer is detectable through at least part of marking. Marking comprises machine-readable representation of code. The method comprises imaging marking; reading the code represented by imaged marking; generating a signature based on the property of preexisting layer as detected by imaging device through at least part of imaged machine-readable representation of code; and generating of object authenticity measure based on read code and generated signature. The invention also relates to apparatuses, systems and computer programs for that purpose.
